Rebellion der Träumer
BERLIN

Some years ago and driven by inspiration Annett Gapstream started expanding her music project to a wider audience and a whole bunch of like-minded people. It's Techno – at least somehow. Colorful dark day techno probably describes her sound best.

As an integral part of the Rebellion der Träumer crew Annett enjoys life between playing and producing music. After starting releasing tracks in 2018 her latest tales can be found on labels like Rebellion der Träumer, Stil vor Talent, Nown Music and Wuza. She also started her own music label in 2021: Artminding creates a platform for this specific sound and simultaneously gives plenty of room for ideas and visions of other artists.

Annett Gapstream does things that feel good right now without trying to already rack her brain during the first track too hard about the last one that might or might not follow. Journeys can change and so do her sets. This is also what identifies most in her productions and collaborations with others – definitely electronic music, mostly straight but always open-minded for powerful twists now and then.

She. Techno with all its faces. And the lovely invitation to join. That's all!
